

The RAIL4SEE (Rail Hub Cities for South East Europe) has been approved within the South East Europe Programme, co-financed by the ERDF.

It aims to enhance rail services and to integrate the different mobility systems of the 11 hubs involved in for an improved transport interconnectivity. That calls for a multimodal integration of local/city transport networks, regional transport systems and transnational transport axes.

The project's main objective is the formulation of models, strategies, actions and pilot which may guarantee a better use of the rail connections.

The activities are oriented to the long term sustainability of the project results from a political, financial and operational point involving the core decision makers

The project started in 2012 and will end in 2014. <http://rail4see.eu/>
